A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,980 families in Adair County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

| % of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017 |
|-------------------|------------|-------------|-----------------|----------------|
| Missouri EITC | < 15% | 15 - 19% | 20 - 25% | 25% or more |

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,180 families in Andrew County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 390 families in Atchison County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,130 families in Audrain County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,560 families in Barry County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,170 families in Barton County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG @MISSOURIBUDGET /MOBUDGET 314-833-5111
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,370 families in Bates County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,660 families in Benton County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✔️ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✔️ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✔️ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✔️ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,150 families in Bollinger County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 11,700 families in Boone County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

- ✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- ✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- ✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- ✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG  @MISSOURIBUDGET  /MOBUDGET  314-833-5111
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

• The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

• Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

• Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

• A Missouri EITC would benefit 8,020 families in Buchanan County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 4,940 families in Butler County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 690 families in Caldwell County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,620 families in Callaway County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,740 families in Camden County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

 ✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

 ✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

 ✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

 ✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 6,120 families in Cape Girardeau County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 700 families in Carroll County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 710 families in Carter County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 6,630 families in Cass County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,400 families in Cedar County.

A Missouri EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 570 families in Chariton County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 6,530 families in Christian County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 570 families in Clark County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri EITC Would:

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 15,630 families in Clay County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:
✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,450 families in Clinton County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 5,840 families in Cole County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Percentage Range</th>
<th>Color</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&lt; 15%</td>
<td>White</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15 - 19%</td>
<td>Light Blue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20 - 25%</td>
<td>Blue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25% or more</td>
<td>Dark Blue</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,380 families in Cooper County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,440 families in Crawford County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG @MISSOURIBUDGET /MOBUDGET 314-833-5111
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 720 families in Dade County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,580 families in Dallas County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 690 families in Daviess County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 710 families in DeKalb County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,460 families in Dent County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,390 families in Douglas County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,370 families in Dunklin County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 8,050 families in Franklin County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,280 families in Gasconade County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 610 families in Gentry County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

| % of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017 |
|---------------------------|-------------------|-------------------|-------------------|-------------------|
|                           | < 15%             | 15 - 19%          | 20 - 25%          | 25% or more       |

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 24,440 families in Greene County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 820 families in Grundy County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 840 families in Harrison County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG @MISSOURIBUDGET /MOBUDGET 314-833-5111
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,950 families in Henry County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 850 families in Hickory County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✔ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✔ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✔ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✔ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 390 families in Holt County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 850 families in Howard County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 4,410 families in Howell County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,040 families in Iron County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 63,170 families in Jackson County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 11,990 families in Jasper County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Percentage Range</th>
<th>County Distribution</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&lt; 15%</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15 - 19%</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20 - 25%</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25% or more</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 15,820 families in Jefferson County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,720 families in Johnson County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 350 families in Knox County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,880 families in Laclede County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,550 families in Lafayette County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,640 families in Lawrence County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 740 families in Lewis County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri EITC is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 4,260 families in Lincoln County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,090 families in Linn County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&lt; 15%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15 - 19%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20 - 25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25% or more</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,190 families in Livingston County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,300 families in Macon County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,240 families in Madison County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

| % of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017 |
|-------------------|-------------------|-------------------|-------------------|-------------------|
| < 15%             | 15 - 19%          | 20 - 25%          | 25% or more       |

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 690 families in Maries County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

• The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

• Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

• Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

• A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,580 families in Marion County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,660 families in McDonald County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 250 families in Mercer County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG @MISSOURIBUDGET /MOBUDGET 314-833-5111
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,520 families in Miller County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,470 families in Mississippi County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,210 families in Moniteau County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 730 families in Monroe County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG @MISSOURIBUDGET /MOBUDGET 314-833-5111
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 980 families in Montgomery County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,890 families in Morgan County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- A Missouri EITC Would:
  ✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
  ✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
  ✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
  ✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,970 families in New Madrid County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 5,530 families in Newton County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,150 families in Oregon County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 860 families in Ozark County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,130 families in Pemiscot County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,480 families in Perry County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 4,250 families in Pettis County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&lt; 15%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15 - 19%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20 - 25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25% or more</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,590 families in Phelps County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,590 families in Phelps County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

• The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

• Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

• Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

• A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,480 families in Pike County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 5,340 families in Platte County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Category</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&lt; 15%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15 - 19%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20 - 25%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25% or more</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,760 families in Polk County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A Missouri EITC would benefit 4,370 families in Pulaski County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 400 families in Putnam County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 700 families in Ralls County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,330 families in Randolph County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,670 families in Ray County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,670 families in Ray County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 680 families in Reynolds County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,590 families in Ripley County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,120 families in Saline County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

• The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

• Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

• Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

• A Missouri EITC would benefit 400 families in Schuyler County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 350 families in Scotland County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✔ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✔ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✔ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✔ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 4,250 families in Scott County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

• The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

• Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

• Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

• A Missouri EITC would benefit 990 families in Shannon County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 570 families in Shelby County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 18,220 families in St. Charles County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families — and the state of Missouri — achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG  @MISSOURIBUDGET  /MOBUDGET  314-833-5111
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 850 families in St. Clair County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 6,140 families in St. Francois County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 36,240 families in St. Louis City.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 75,330 families in St. Louis County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,220 families in Ste. Genevieve County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,910 families in Stoddard County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,630 families in Stone County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 620 families in Sullivan County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

- ✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- ✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- ✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- ✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 6,080 families in Taney County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet

% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

- < 15%
- 15 - 19%
- 20 - 25%
- 25% or more

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,460 families in Texas County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,890 families in Vernon County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,530 families in Warren County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:
✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.
A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.
- A Missouri EITC would benefit 1,410 families in Wayne County.

Federal EITC Helps Missourians Across the State Make Ends Meet
% of Households Receiving Federal EITC Payments, By County, Tax Year 2017

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.
- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.
- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 3,240 families in Webster County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

- Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.
- Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.
- Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.
- Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.

WWW.MOBUDGET.ORG @MISSOURIBUDGET /MOBUDGET 314-833-5111
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 190 families in Worth County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.
Bolster the Middle Class with an Earned Income Tax Credit

A state Earned Income Tax Credit would provide a much-needed boost for hardworking families. This bottom-up tax cut builds the middle class, spurs local economic growth, and provides long-term benefits to families and communities.

- The federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has long provided hardworking families the ability to achieve a better future and a pathway to the middle class. The structure of the EITC encourages people to stay working and to work more hours.

- Though most families receive the EITC only temporarily, it has profound long-term benefits for families and communities.

- Building on the demonstrated success of the federal credit, 29 states and the District of Columbia have created state EITCs that offer a credit towards state and local taxes for low- and moderate-income workers struggling to get by.

- A Missouri EITC would benefit 2,050 families in Wright County.

A Missouri EITC Would:

✓ Provide a bottom-up tax cut for working families.

✓ Help as many as 494,000 Missouri families from across the state pay for basic necessities like child care and car repairs, which are essential to success in work and life.

✓ Boost local economies by putting more money in the pockets of people most likely to spend it at local community businesses.

✓ Improve the lives of Missouri’s children and our future workforce. Children whose families receive the federal EITC have higher test scores, are more likely to go to college, and enjoy greater earnings as adults, establishing a more productive and skilled workforce for Missouri’s future.

A Missouri Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is one of the best ways our state can help working families – and the state of Missouri – achieve a more prosperous future.